Six-month NRR1 for EUR represents the average cost of source funds of the Croatian banking sector (banks and savings banks), that is, costs of retail deposits in EUR over the proceeding period. That is to say, it is the average interest rate paid by the banking sector for acquiring the funds they need for their credit operations. In a certain period, the 6M NRR can go up or down, which reflects on the applicable interest rate payable by the borrower, in line with the provisions of the respective loan agreement. Contracting the variable interest rate and accepting of the General Terms and Conditions of OTP banka dioničko društvo applicable in credit operations with natural persons, the borrower assumes the risk of interest rate fluctuation caused by changes to the reference rate during the term of the agreement. Information on the NRR1 for EUR currency is published by the Croatian National Bank, and the calculation can be found on their internet site (www.hnb.hr). In case the quotation of the reference rate is not available in a certain period, or in the event it no longer exists in the present form (as a parameter of the variable portion of the agreed interest rate in a credit transaction during the term of the agreement between the borrower and the Bank, the Bank shall determine a new parameter to replace the reference rate that is no longer applicable, all in line with the current rules and regardless of the intent of the contracting parties. In case no rules are laid down for the event a certain reference rate ceases to apply in the interbank market, the Bank shall set a new parameter to replace the interest rate that is put out of force, all in accordance with the General Terms and Conditions and the Nominal Interest Rate and Pricing Modification Policy, taking into consideration the currency of the loan agreement between the borrower and the Bank. Regardless of the method of change of the interest rate with a new parameter, the actual amount payable at the moment the reference rate ceases to apply cannot be higher than the interest rate payable before the replacement of the reference rate. Unless the applicable regulations dictate otherwise, the Bank shall apply the modified interest rate.
